

TotalExam® Camera Selection Matrix

All GlobalMed exam cameras and otoscopes are designed to the highest quality with the clinician and practitioner in mind, but which model best suits your needs?

The specific preferences of the user, needs of the practice or demands of the specialty makes the selection of medical exam imaging device different for each situation. To help in your decision, the following comparison matrix was design to help guide your selection between our two most popular medical exam / otoscope imagers.

	TE Lite Exam Camera and Otoscope	TE 3 Exam Camera with Otoscope Attachment
Questions to Consider When Selecting a Camera
What are your imaging resolution requirements?	High	Extremely High
In what environment will the camera be used?	It will be used both indoor and outdoor in various environments and temperature ranges	It will be used mainly in a temperature-controlled facility
Is the intended use for telemedicine or digital evidence for EMR?	Yes	Yes
Will the camera be integrated into a clinical software suite?	Yes, Designed for Software Integration	Yes, Designed for Software Integration
Do you prefer a dedicated device per exam type, or a single device with attachments?	The TotalExam Lite kit includes a dedicated exam camera and an otoscope	The TotalExam 3.0 is a single camera with an otoscope attachment
What is your current budget level?	Budget is a significant decision factor	Budget is one decision factor, but not the only one
Intended patient age range	Works with most ear anatomies infant to adult	Intended for use from adolescent to adult
What are the primary exam use cases for the camera?
Pediatric	Yes	No
ENT	Yes	Yes
Dermatologic	Yes	Yes
Optical	Yes	Yes
Wound Care	Yes	Yes
Infectious Disease	Yes	Yes